New York Art Critic Gives Lively Lecture

A witty and stimulating lecture by Miss Emily Genauer, distinguished art critic for the New York Herald-Tribune, was the high point of the College Art Conference conducted last week on the Northwest Missouri State College campus.

Miss Genauer, who has been chief art critic for the New York newspaper since 1959, has also written a number of books, including a monograph on Toulouse-Lautrec for the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

In her talk Miss Genauer related some of her personal background, emphasizing the fact that art has always been her lifelong interest. An art major, she worked her way through college by journalistic endeavors and became a full-fledged newspaper art critic at the age of 21.

Miss Genauer, who has studied sculpturing at the National Academy, stated that she does not believe genuine artistic talent is a prerequisite for sincere art appreciation. "You don't have to be a chicken to enjoy an omelet," she said.

A fast-moving discussion period followed Miss Genauer's talk. Among topics pursued were a contemporary concept of the term "classified" and the influence of exhibitions on the course of art and the influence of movements in art on the galleries.

Those attending the conference included 29 representatives of Missouri state colleges and Lincoln University and Miss Olive DeLuce, chairman emeritus of the MSC art department and one of the founders of the conference.

Campus Group Plans Red Cross Bleed-in

Plans are being formulated for the Wesley Foundation-sponsored Red Cross blood drive Apr. 28 with the motto, "Give so that others will live."

The blood taken by the Red Cross will be fractionated into useable parts and will be designated for U. S. Defense Department use in Viet Nam. Alan Pruitt, sophomore from Elmo, is the student chairman for the operation.

With a goal of 240 units for the day set up by the Red Cross, Wesley Foundation and college officials are hopeful that this drive will be successful in order that dates may be procured for a larger drive next fall.

Registration for the event will begin in the near future with quotas allotted to each organization wishing to participate. Students 18 to 21 years of age must have their parents' signature before they can give blood.

Miss Maryville to Receive MSC Scholarship, Crown

The annual Maryville Jaycee-sponsored Miss Maryville Scholarship Pageant is to be held at 7:30 p. m., Apr. 19 in the Charles Johnson Theater in the Fine Arts Building.

E. L. Rainey of the Pepsi Cola Bottling Co., Albany, has notified the Jaycees that he will present a $200 scholarship for attendance at MSC to the girl crowned Miss Maryville.

In addition to the scholarship, the girl crowned will receive an official Miss America local pageant crown and a Miss America type trophy. The 1966 Miss Maryville will be eligible to compete in the Miss Missouri Pageant scheduled for July 7-10 at Springfield.

Selection of Miss Maryville is based on beauty, talent, charm, and poise. Entries are now being accepted from girls age 18 to 28 with 23 contestants expected to enter the preliminary at 6:30 p. m., Monday in the Charles Johnson Theater.

The total of 23 was derived from the following: two from each of the college's four sororities; one from each of the five fraternities; three from women's residence halls; three sponsored by men's residence halls; one from Maryville High School; and three at large entrants who must be Maryville residents attending either the high school or college.

Ten girls will be selected from the group to compete in the Pageant. A personal interview and a demonstration of talent will be a basis for judging in the preliminary event.

The first and second runner-up will receive trophies and awards, and all finalists will receive Miss America charm bracelets.

The Miss Maryville Scholarship Pageant is an official local Miss America preliminary.

3,000 Youths To Compete In Music Event

Nearly 3,000 high school musicians from 50 area high schools are expected to take part in the District Music Festival Thursday-Saturday on the MSC campus.

Competition will be held for four classes of schools, A, B, C, and D, determined by size of enrollment. Small groups and soloists will be certified from this contest to compete in the state music festival later in the spring.

Instrumental and vocal soloists and small ensembles in classes A and D will perform Thursday. Those in classes B and C will be judged Friday. Bands, glee clubs will perform Friday evening and Saturday.

Music Faculty Aids

Dr. John L. Smay, chairman, and Ward Rounds, Division of Music, participated in a pre-contest woodwind clinic Wednesday at Maryville High School. The clinic was conducted for students who plan to enter district music contests.

ADMIRERS of work in wood relief by Robert L. Blackman, MSC sculpture and ceramics instructor, are Toni Johnson, Tom Sayre, and Marsha Dunavan, all MSC art students who assisted with registration during the State College Art Conference held on campus last week.

Business Students Gain Positions of Leadership

PLEASED with results obtained after the mailing of the 1966 directory, MSC business graduates and their adviser anticipate many more inquiries. Seated are Daryl Kline, Dr. E. K. DeVore, and Glenn West; standing, Jerry Robey and Ken Stickler.

Division of Business Offers Special Aids, Challenges to 500

The Division of Business at Northwest Missouri State College assumes multiple responsibilities to the students and communities it serves.

First, it provides for a basic understanding of modern business and its techniques. This provides invaluable training for all enrollees regardless of final choice of vocation. Second, if a student decides on a career in business, it provides specialization to make this possible.

More than 500 of the current MSC students have chosen the field of business as their major, specializing in accounting, finance and insurance, management, marketing, or secretarial procedures. In 1966, the Division will graduate approximately 140 men and women.

The 13-member Division staff is headed by Dr. Elwyn K. DeVore. The staff will be increased to 16 during the coming fall semester. Most of the faculty have had business experience and are working toward doctoral degrees.

Each of the faculty seeks to guide students in meeting their core courses, to advise them on major and minor plans, and to prepare those students who will continue in graduate work to do so successfully.

Two new courses were added to the Division this semester. These are Supreme Court Decisions, taught by Durwood Dyke, who is an experienced attorney, and Collection the interpretation of Statistical Data, taught by Mrs. Mary Jane Sunkel.

To aid business students in their work, a new study area has been opened in Room 211, Colden Hall. This room is equipped with calculators, adding machines, typewriters, and current issues of business periodicals and reports.

Each year the Division of Business conducts a business lecture series at which well-known capable speakers from industry present their views on current problems in business. In addition, each business major is required to attend a business seminar at which several topics are discussed by different faculty members at each session. Following these lectures, the students are given a written examination over the material. A student must pass this examination before becoming eligible for graduation.

Two business organizations that are active on campus are Pi Beta Alpha, a professional fraternity for men, and Pi Omega Pi, an honorary organization for future business teachers. Many guest lecturers from business and industry speak to the members of Pi Beta Alpha. The information gained from these guest speakers is further enhanced by the annual field trip in which the members visit well-known firms, usually located in Kansas City, Omaha, or Des Moines.

Business majors receive one of three degrees: a Bachelor of Arts, a Bachelor of Science, or a Bachelor of Science in Education. Those with a Bachelor of Science in Education, in addition to their training in their specialized business area, are also qualified to teach in the public schools.

TAKING ADVANTAGE of the newly provided study area available in Colden Hall for business students, Janet Quinn, Merlin Jennings, Richard Calfee, and Carol Duff work efficiently in a relaxing atmosphere.

1966 MSC Business Graduates Featured in Recent Publication

As a part of its overall program of better service to students, the Division of Business, under the direction of Dr. E. K. DeVore, has published a brochure listing some of the 1966 business graduates of Northwest Missouri State College. The brochure was paid for by the students listed.

The directory gives the students' pictures, names, home addresses, majors and related educational qualifications, past employment experiences, and selective service status. The 68 students listed paid to have their names included.

Although the directory has been out only a short time, according to Doctor DeVore,

"The results so far have been fabulous." Phone calls and letters have been received from business concerns throughout the Mid-West and other parts of the country.

According to Doctor DeVore, the purposes for publication of the directory are two-fold: "It will let businessmen get acquainted with the Division of Business at MSC and will aid seniors in securing job opportunities." The directory has been sent to 1,700 business concerns throughout the nation.

The persons listed in the directory have majored in accounting, finance and insurance, general business, marketing, or secretarial procedures. It includes those receiving the AB, BS, and BS in Education degrees.

Perhaps the spirit of the whole project is stated best by this opening statement written for the booklet by President R. P. Foster: "Northwest Missouri State College is proud of its past and present graduates and rightly so, as many of them now hold responsible positions in business, industry, and education."

Chemical Affiliates Elect New Officers

The Junior Affiliates of the American Chemical Society recently elected officers for next year.

The new executives are Daryl Mercer, president; Dan Engel, vice-president; Joan Marek, secretary, and John Steinhauser, treasurer.

Soren Sorenson and Mercer presented the program on the conductivity of strong and weak electrolytes and paper chromatography. Also shown was a film which described the single-pan balance and showed the methods for weighing samples.

Business Fraternity Elects Officers, Plans Spring Field Trip to Omaha

FOUR OF THE NEW Pi Beta Alpha officers inspect the fraternity's bulletin board as they plan for future meetings. They are Melvin Booth, Terry Tillotson, Bob Jacobs, and Russell Blom.

the following year he served as co-chairman of the variety show committee. This year Burmeister was business chairman of the over-all Homecoming program.

A representative to IFC for the last three years, Burmeister currently is president of that organization. He also served as president of Tau Kappa Epsilon this year. Previously he had held two other offices within the fraternity. Phil plans to attend Iowa University next fall where he hopes to do graduate work in sociology.

Dr. Frank Grube, chairman of the Division of Language and Literature, is the honor fraternity's sponsor.

Averill West to Represent MSC in 'Campus Talent, 66'

Averill West, Blockton, Iowa, senior, has been notified of his selection to appear in the production of "Campus Talent, 66," a statewide television broadcast featuring college talent chosen from all Missouri colleges.

In the local contest, he sang "Al di La" and "Once Upon a Time." Gary Silletto, Guthrie Center, Iowa, sophomore, accompanied West on the guitar.

The program, to be produced by Corinthian special production, is one of several to be taped in various states by Southwestern Bell Telephone Company to present outstanding college talent. West's performance will be video taped here Wednesday.

The contest winner will graduate in August with a BS degree in English and psychology. Next fall he plans to enroll in the Christian Theological Seminary, Indianapolis, Ind.

West was licensed to be a minister over a year ago. Last spring and summer he was a part time minister at the Burlington Junction Christian Church. He has also worked with the youth program at the Maryville First Christian Church. At present he is the pastor at Bethany, a rural Christian Church southwest of Maryville.

State Records Show Need for Driving Care

During recent research, the Missouri Highway Patrol has discovered that human failure is the main cause of the 1,367 traffic deaths last year in Missouri.

Colonel E. I. Hockaday, superintendent of the Missouri Highway Patrol, stated that although motor vehicles and highways have greatly improved over the past year, the improvements in driving ability have not kept the pace. Many people are ignoring the seriousness of driving, he pointed out.

education, has been an active member of the Tower Choir. He is president of UCCF.

A lyric tenor, West has had much experience in singing. He entered and won many local talent contests and appeared in the REA Talent exhibition while he was in high school. He has taken one semester of voice training under the direction of Gilbert Whitney. West also won a "I" rating as a member of a quartet in the Missouri State Music Contest.

... An off-the-cuff remark was made by a young girl admiring other contestants in the MSC Best Dressed Girl Contest. A little nervous, she commented to the Stroller that she didn't have a chance in the face of such strong competition. Little did Georgia know. . . .

... On the way home, Ye Olde Stroller got a ride with a group of Sig Tau pledges in a pickup truck. They had their actives' television set well secured in the back and seemed to be in quite a hurry.

Then the Stroller, dropped in front of the Tekke House, observed a water fight between actives and pledges. Since pledges maintained the strategic advantage of the roof, no one could enter the house without a bath. For once, novices proved that even actives can be wet behind the ears.

Ye Olde Stroller was listening to the radio recently and heard that the word for Tekes was "Bloomington." He wondered what that meant, especially since the actives seemed quite nervous for a while. One of them could not even be located for comment. . . . He was out fishing.

... Spring is in the air, and the Phantom, like everyone else, is restless for the out-of-doors. Being broad-minded, he enjoys seeing students break from the confines of the classroom to study around the college lake.

But he seems a little disappointed about the mass exodus from campus at the end of the week. He wishes that more students would stay on campus for the weekend parties.

... Speaking of the weather, there are several coeds who probably aren't feeling too well. They got sunburned behind the dorms.

... And then there's St. Patrick's Day. Who was that English teacher who matched his green tie with a green coffee cup? And get a load of this: The wife of an upperclassman even tinted her hair green. That's jovial Irish spirit.

... With mid-terms nearly over, the Stroller hopes that students will not receive many pink slips. If they do, he will have to greet them with that choice expression recently brought to campus, "Toooooo badd."

... The Stroller adds this word: Remember that there is at least one advantage to the draft. It's a graceful way of dropping out of school.

PHI MU: Latin Sorority Or Greek Fraternity?

How many times in the last five years has Phi Mu been mistakenly called a sorority?

To many people the term fraternity implies a men's organization; however, if one would check the meaning in a dictionary, he would find that fraternity is derived from the Greek word "frato" meaning brotherhood or sisterhood. The term sorority is derived from a Latin word meaning sisterhood.

"As Phi Mu is a Greek organization, we prefer to adhere to the original Greek term," Terry Stitt, scholarship chairman, explained.

President Johnson's Proposal To Change Student Loans Hits Snag in Congress

One facet of President Lyndon B. Johnson's budget message to Congress may have a primary effect on some students on the MSC campus as well as on other campuses throughout the country.

President Johnson has proposed to shift the National Defense Student Loan program to a subsidized loan plan included in the 1965 Higher Education Act. Under this plan the federal government would allow the payment of six percent interest while the student affected is enrolled in college and one-half of the interest on the loan during the repayment period.

Last week, however, a House education subcommittee rejected the administration's plan for abolishing a federal program of loans to college students. The subcommittee unanimously declared they will demand that the White House seek the 190 million dollars authorized earlier for the student loans.

After banking community protested that it cannot quickly pick up the program, the administration proposed a one-year extension of the National Defense Education Act program. However, the federal contribution would be limited to 150 million dollars, and in order to receive any of that, colleges would have to show that they could not meet loan needs from private sources.

This is the proposal that the House subcommittee rejected last week. It acted shortly after hearing a spokesman for the bankers testify that rising interest rates and a tight money market call for proceeding slowly on any plan to destroy the NDEA loans.

"The subcommittee is determined to continue the present NDEA student loan program as it has been in the past for the next fiscal year, according to Representative Edith Green (D-Ore.).

When discussing the proposed change, William Needels, MSC director of student loans, emphasized that students may have difficulty in securing a bank loan. He asks students to consider whether or not banks will be willing to accept this extra burden and participate in such a program.

Mr. Needels noted that students who applied for loans this semester under the United States Student Aid Funds, which will be covered by the guaranteed loan program, frequently had their requests denied.

Many rural banks are not participating in the program because they do not have the capital to do so, Mr. Needels pointed out. He added that if NDEA benefits are not available to students, there is a danger that students in financial need all over the country may not be able to complete their education.

Currently nearly 600 MSC students are receiving loan money. Funds are available for the 1966 summer session, according to Mr. Needels. Unless President Johnson's proposal is defeated by Congress, however, it is likely that there will be no NDEA loan money next fall.

Students should realize that the motion made by the subcommittee has no binding effect on the administration; however, the legislative group definitely has given a warning that it will oppose any attempt to force through the proposal. We think most MSC students will applaud this stand.

Students Advocate 5-Day Week... Like Computer Dance... Give Blood

Saturday classes are a source of conflict at Stephens College, Columbia. Many students are asking for a five-day week with the argument that the student on Saturday morning is unresponsive and inattentive.

The counter-argument is that the student would be forced to take more academic hours in a five-day week and that the strain on faculty and students alike would be too great. Those condemning the proposed change also fear that Stephens would become a "suitcase" college with everyone leaving on the weekends.

Youth Renaissance, a week-long program of self-examination, was presented recently to the student body at Graceland College, Lamoni, Iowa. The theme, "This Present World," involved an effort to relate religious experience to contemporary social life. Topics presented and discussed in student groups were those of cheating, heresy, sex, and spiritual experience.

The students at Graceland will soon participate in another kind of examination—teacher evaluation. A questionnaire, that will bring to the attention of students and faculty alike the aspects of good classroom experience, is now being formulated. Students will fill out the questionnaire on the basis of their respective courses but will not be required to sign it.

Two hundred students at Southeast Missouri State College, Cape Girardeau, recently donated blood for the Defense Department and servicemen in Viet Nam. Similar drives have been conducted at Park College and Central Missouri State College. The blood was processed by the Red Cross.

Mu Kappa Mu at Millersville, Pa., State College will sponsor a computer dance for the student body this spring. Students will be mailed questionnaires which they will fill out according to their individual likes and dislikes. The computer will then pair couples for the event. The popularity of this kind of event is spreading rapidly.

Students at one Missouri college found a temporary way to beat the parking ticket. They placed slips of white paper on the windshield of their cars when they parked in a no-parking zone. The policemen, thinking the students already had tickets, passed them by.

Coach Richey made the first cuts last week, naming nine infielders, eight outfielders, five catchers, and nine pitchers from 55 prospects. Four new infielders expected to be competing for open positions are Bob Weyrauch, Don Hicks, Heferlin, and Joe Spinello. Tom Younger will vie with lettermen for a spot in the outfield.

With much of the team's improvement depending on the weather, Doctor Richey hopes to get his troops outside as much as possible to prepare for the season opener in two weeks. Workouts will include intra-squad games, with each pitcher seeing three or four innings of action.

Don Bachman, sophomore from Council Bluffs, has what is believed to be the record catch of the season for Northwest Missouri State College fishermen with a seven-pound large mouth bass.

The 22-inch game fish was taken with a sonic plug about 3:30 p. m. Saturday in a Nodaway County farm pond. Bachman, who was fishing with Anthony Simons, Maryville businessman, at the time of the catch, described the bass as the largest he had ever landed in this area.

He also stated that he has been a fishing fan for as long as he "has been able to hold a pole." Bachman has been on fishing trips as far away as the hinterland of Canada.

As pleased as he is with his catch, he is disappointed that he could find no one in this area to mount his prize.

Outstanding Wrestler Chosen Blue Key Man of the Month

Al Packer, a senior from Chenango Forks, N. Y., has been chosen as the Blue Key Man for March in recognition for his accomplishments as an MSC grappler.

A physical education major with an industrial arts minor, Packer has been an outstanding member of the wrestling squad. He has wrestled at 160, 167, and 177 pounds, compiling an over-all MIAA record of 36 victories and 2 defeats, which both came in his freshman year in the 177-pound class.

In his sophomore year Al placed fourth in nation-wide competition. He also holds the school record for pins, with 28 of his 38 dual-meet victories coming through pinning combinations. In competition Packer has a total of 46 pins, which is also a school record.

Coach Jerry Landwehr has nothing but praise for his student, commenting, "Al is a fine boy, a good leader, and an excellent trainer, with all-around loyalty to the school. He is the kind of boy every coach looks for."

This season marked Packer last in collegiate competition. The honoree was chosen by the present members of Blue Key. At present Mike Thompson is president of the organ-
